Management Information Systems Student

About Me

I am a Management Information Systems student. I am proficient in performing data manipulation and analysis using SQL Workbench. I can visualize the data I process using Power BI, presenting it through dynamic, interactive dashboards.
For User interface (UI) design, I use Figma application to create custom website layouts and incorporate interactive elements.
Furthermore, I am capable of analyzing corporate balance sheets and income statements to derive financial reports and interpret key financial ratios.
Through the various group projects I have undertaken during my university studies, I have also developed strong skills in teamwork and team management.
